Introduction

- 1. The Working Group on the Universal Periodic Review (UPR), established in accordance with Human Rights Council resolution 5/1 of 18 June 2007, held its seventeenth session from 21 October to 1 November 2013. The review of Belize was held at the 12th meeting on 28 October 2013. The delegation of Belize was headed by Ms. Judith Alpuche, Chief Executive Officer, Ministry of Human Development, Social Transformation and Poverty Alleviation. At its 18th meeting held on 30 October 2013, the Working Group adopted the report on Belize.
- 2. On 14 January 2013, the Human Rights Council selected the following group of rapporteurs (troika) to facilitate the review of Belize: Brazil, Germany, the Maldives.
- 3. In accordance with paragraph 15 of the annex to resolution 5/1 and paragraph 5 of the annex to resolution 16/21, the following documents were issued for the review of Belize:
- (a) A national report submitted/written presentation made in accordance with paragraph 15 (a) (A/HRC/WG.6/17/BLZ/1);
- (b) A compilation prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (b) (A/HRC/WG.6/17/BLZ/2);
- (c) A summary prepared by OHCHR in accordance with paragraph 15 (c) (A/HRC/WG.6/17/BLZ/3).
- 4. A list of questions prepared in advance by Germany, Liechtenstein, the Netherlands, Norway, Slovenia and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland was transmitted to Belize through the troika. These questions are available on the extranet of the UPR.

I. Summary of the proceedings of the review process

A. Presentation by the State under review

- 5. The delegation of Belize stated that respect for human rights and fundamental freedoms, both at home and abroad, was a cornerstone of Belize's domestic and foreign policy. The preparation of the UPR report provided Belize with an unparalleled opportunity to reflect on the meaning of human rights in the context of its own national development, on the status of the implementation of its international human rights obligations, and on the duty of the Government in this respect.
- 6. In drafting the national report, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs coordinated with the full range of ministries and with civil society partners. The report reflected inputs from the Ministry of Human Development, Social Transformation and Poverty Alleviation, the Attorney General's Ministry, the Ministry of Health and the Ministry of Education. A number of NGOs were also consulted during the process, including the Women's Issues Network of Belize, the Human Rights Commission of Belize, the Belize Council of Churches, the Belize Association of Evangelical Churches, the United Belize Advocacy Movement and the YMCA. Once the final draft of the report was ready, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs convened a validation workshop with government and non-governmental agencies to share the report and receive final comments. The report was subjected to spirited debate. Thereafter, the final Report was submitted to Cabinet, the highest policy body of the Government, which gave their unqualified endorsement.

- 7. Belize was a small, developing country with a population of about 316,000 people. It faced all the challenges of a small state: vulnerability to exogenous shocks, dependence on eroding preferential terms of trade, the vagaries of climate change, and high external debt.
- 8. According to the recent Living Standards Measurement Survey (LSMS), household poverty increased from 25 per cent in 2002 to 33 per cent in 2009 and the indigence rate increased from 10.8 per cent to 15.8 per cent.
- 9. Belize was a multicultural society; with diverse groups co-existing peacefully. 64 per cent of its population were under the age of 29 years. Belize had a low population density, with the majority of the population residing in rural areas, including at remote locations
- 10. Belize was proud of its democratic traditions and the fundamental freedoms that were enshrined in its Constitution. Labour union activism and citizen participation were defining features of its colonial and post-independence history. Respect for rule of law and judicial independence were hallmarks of its judiciary.
- 11. Belize was a party to the majority of international human rights treaties, including the regional human rights treaties of the Inter American system. The Government took seriously its obligation to implement the treaties. To this end, a number of national laws formed the framework of the national human rights regime. This national framework was anchored firmly in the Constitution which affirmed the human rights and fundamental freedoms of all Belizeans and the equal and inalienable rights of all persons.
- 12. At the frontline of Government's efforts to promote and protect human rights was the Ministry of Human Development, Social Transformation and Poverty Alleviation. Four quasi-government agencies had specialized functions with the purpose of ensuring the protection of key vulnerable populations. The National Committee for Families and Children was tasked with monitoring the implementation of CRC. The National AIDS Commission coordinated a multi stakeholder response to addressing the policy, legislative and practical challenges relating to HIV/AIDS. The National Council on Aging advocated for the rights of older persons. The National Women's Commission oversaw the implementation of CEDAW and the Belem do Para Convention as well as the implementation of the Revised National Gender Policy.
- 13. Following on recommendations received during the first review, the Government had moved to strengthen the Office of the Ombudsman, which had independent powers to investigate citizen complaints and seek redress. The Office of the Ombudsman continued to enjoy the confidence of Belizeans as evidenced by the number of persons who accessed the Office.
- 14. The Government had also invested significantly in strengthening the Legal Aid Office, both in terms of resources and capacity. Belize hoped to expand the services of the Legal Aid Office to all districts and to employ an attorney dedicated to juvenile justice.
- 15. Another important actor in promoting and protecting human rights was civil society. Their advocacy work had been instrumental in sustaining a national discussion about the rights of citizens, the national human rights framework and the role of Government.
- 16. Human rights must be realized in all its dimensions: legal, social, political and economic. In this regard, the Government had taken a rights based approach to development. Respect for human rights was a guiding principle of Horizon 2030, its national development blueprint. National development and the full realization of the human rights of all Belizeans were two sides of the same coin. All Belizeans must be assured of a certain minimum standard of living, which served as a common basis for the full enjoyment of all human rights.

- 17. Belize subscribed fully to the aspirations of the Millennium Development Goals, and it had since 2000 worked assiduously, in concert with its development partners, to meet the goals and the indicators. Belize had done fairly well in meeting its education and health targets.
- 18. Belize was actively participating in the inter-governmental discussions on the post 2015 agenda and it was commencing the realignment of its national development plans in anticipation of the new global development framework.
- 19. Belize was acutely aware that persistent pockets of poverty continued to pose a challenge to development; poverty then remained an obstacle to the full realization of all human rights of all Belizeans. Poverty alleviation and the expansion of economic opportunities were the overarching objectives of its national development strategy and action plans.
- 20. Over the past five years, considerable efforts had been invested in the reform of its social protection systems, particularly focusing on the modernization of social safety net programmes. The Government had sought to guarantee social protection to key population groups, including older persons, children, people living with HIV/AIDS, women, and youths.
- 21. At the center of Government's efforts were a number of targeted interventions designed to support the poorest segments of the population in the areas of health and education.
- 22. The National Health Insurance scheme provided free and low cost access to health care for those living in south-side Belize City and southern Belize, the poorest areas of the largest city and of the country respectively.
- 23. The Building Opportunities for Social Transformation (BOOST), was a Conditional Cash Transfer programme and provided cash grants to poor and indigent individuals and families. The cash transfers served as an incentive to keep children in school and ensured that they were up to date with their immunization protocols. The most recent data from the Ministry of Human Development indicated that there were some 8,600 beneficiaries. Belize was most proud of its high rates of bankerization among its beneficiaries with 96 per cent of these beneficiaries receiving benefits through credit unions. The positive effect of the BOOST programme was confirmed by a 2012 World Bank evaluation that concluded that the programme was showing some good results.
- 24. The Food Pantry Programme provided a weekly basket of basic food items to beneficiaries at half the market price. There were over 3,000 families currently benefitting.
- 25. Health care and income security were the primary concerns for the elderly. To this end, the Government continued to support the Non Contributory Pension for older persons which provided coverage to approximately a quarter of the elderly population. Additionally, 48 per cent of the elderly population had access to the National Health Insurance scheme.
- 26. Belize had made significant gains in addressing the multiple challenges associated with HIV/AIDS. Notwithstanding a small increase in new infections in 2012, for four years previously, new infections rates were on the decline. The Prevention of Mother to Child Transmission Programme had a coverage rate of 95 per cent. The Government continued to provide universal access to antiretroviral treatment. In tandem with civil society partners, the Government also continued to sensitize the general population on HIV issues, targeting in particular adolescent females and most at risk populations.
- 27. While the Government had endeavored to ensure implementation of all the treaties to which Belize is a party, it was mindful that reporting remained a major challenge. The Attorney General's Ministry had established an International Legal Affairs Department to.

- inter alia, provide advice on treaty obligations which would, in turn, inform consideration of joining new treaties. The Government continued to study closely the treaties recommended by Members of the Human Rights Council on the last occasion. In 2011, Belize acceded to CRPD. Belize would continue to work towards completing processes already underway for accession to the major international human rights treaties that were still pending.
- 28. The feasibility of establishing a new architecture or a national human rights institution in accordance with the Paris Principles was a challenge in the present economic context of strained resources. However, priority of ensuring compliance with its human rights obligations remained undiminished. Since the first UPR cycle, and with the assistance of the Office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights, Belize had convened a number of workshops to build technical capacity and instituted an inter-ministerial mechanism to coordinate the preparation of reports to the Treaty Bodies.
- 29. The challenge of timely reporting was not unique to Belize. It was a common malady among all small states. Belize therefore encouraged the Human Rights Council and the Treaty Bodies to continue streamlining the process in an effort to ease the reporting burden of small countries with limited resources.
- 30. Parliament had enacted new laws in the context of its ongoing national efforts to continuously improve the legislative framework to ensure the protection of human rights of all Belizeans, taking on board a number of recommendations emanating from the first Universal Periodic Review.
- 31. Belize had, for example, earlier this year, enacted improved domestic legislation implementing the Protocol to Prevent, Suppress and Punish Trafficking in Persons, especially Women and Children. Parliament had also passed the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children Prohibition Act in order to implement the provisions of the OP-CRC-SC.
- 32. The Education and Training Act, which entered into force in 2010, prohibited corporal punishment in schools. Amendments to the Labour Act treating the issues of age of admission to work were pending for consideration. Additionally, a draft Occupational Health and Safety Act to prohibit the involvement of children in hazardous work, the ILO Conventions and other international standards were also pending consideration.
- 33. During the first UPR, Belize received a number of recommendations relating to the promotion and protection of the rights of women. Those recommendations focused on sexual and reproductive health, labour, and gender based violence. In 2010, UNFPA, in collaboration with a number of other partners, conducted an assessment of the linkage between sexual and reproductive health and HIV in Belize and found that Belize had a comprehensive and supportive national policy framework.
- 34. Belize had adopted a similar comprehensive approach to addressing gender-based violence. To complement the implementation of the Domestic Violence Act, the Women's Department had rolled out a National Gender-based Violence Action plan, a Domestic Violence Protocol for Police Officers had been revised and a number of user-friendly publications had been distributed to ensure that victims of gender-based violence were fully aware of their rights and the support services available to them.
- 35. In terms of labour related issues, the Women's Department continued to organize a number of training courses for women to build their capacity to engage in the marketplace and to develop skills to enable them to generate their own income. The Decent Work Agenda currently being implemented by the Labour Department focused on women and youth.

- 36. The Revised Gender Policy was endorsed by Cabinet in March 2013. It built on the 2002 Policy and focused on strategies to reduce gender disparities in five key areas: Health, Education/Skills Training, Wealth and Employment Generation, Violence Producing Conditions and Power and Decision-making. It was the subject of spirited debate among Belizeans and provided an opportunity for a truly national dialogue about gender relations, diversity and human rights.
- 37. Since Belize had a very young population, protecting the rights of children and providing opportunities for youths were a high priority of the Government. Following on the recommendations of the first UPR cycle, significant improvements had been made to the national birth registration system to ensure greater access. Birth registration was at 95 per cent and approaching universal coverage.
- 38. Improving access to quality education continued to be a major focus of the Government's efforts. While universal access to primary education appeared to be within reach, challenges remained at the pre-school, secondary and tertiary levels. The Government had embarked on an ambitious reform programme to transform the education sector. The 2010 Education and Training Act provided the legal framework for these reforms.
- 39. The Government had invested significantly in providing opportunities for employment and for rehabilitation for youth, particularly those at risk youth.
- 40. In relation to indigenous rights, the delegation stated that the Mayas of Southern Belize exemplified human rights in action. In July 2013, the Court of Appeals of Belize affirmed that the Mayas were entitled to indigenous title and the rights thereunder in respect of the lands they occupied. However, this High Court did not affirm the Government's duty to give effect to those rights by the remedies offered by the lower court. Consequently, the Government had been in communication with the representatives of the Mayas to determine a mutually agreeable framework for the implementation of the judgment of the Court of Appeals.
- 41. Belize continued to be concerned about persistent pockets of poverty and low social indicators in the Toledo District, where the majority of Mayas lived. A number of targeted interventions had been implemented to provide assistance and support to the Mayas, including the "Improving Children's Health and Nutrition in Poor Mayan Communities in Toledo" project, which had a very high rate of coverage.
- 42. With regard to the advance questions submitted by Members of the Council, the delegation stated that Belize was a steadfast supporter of the International Criminal Court, and one of the earliest depositors of the instrument of ratification of the Rome Statute. Indeed, Belize was the 8th country to deposit. Another demonstration of Belize's commitment was that it participated actively in the assembly of State Parties and had along with Trinidad and Tobago proposed an amendment to the Rome Statute to expand the crimes under the Court's jurisdiction to include international drug trafficking. Although Belize did not yet have in place a single comprehensive legislation to implement the Rome Statute, existing domestic laws did respond to its obligations under the Rome Statute, including the Genocide Act and several other pieces of legislation that treat with crimes under the Court's jurisdiction.
- 43. Belize was encouraged by the recent pace of ratifications of the Kampala Amendments by the other State Parties to the Rome Statute. Belize was reviewing these Amendments and welcomed the offer of Liechtenstein to provide technical assistance to support the Government's consideration of the amendments.
- 44. Despite its best endeavors and intentions, Belize was unable to submit a full national report to CERD and this continued to be a work in progress.

- 45. The Constitution of Belize prohibited discrimination against all persons and affirmed that "all persons are equal before the law and are entitled without any discrimination to the equal protection of the law." The Prime Minister had reiterated that Government would not "shirk its duty to ensure that all citizens, without exception, enjoy the full protection of the law." Belize noted in this context, as well, an advance question regarding a section of the Criminal Code which criminalized sodomy. The section of the Criminal Code was sub judice.
- 46. The delegation stated that the inextricable link between development and human rights was the recurring theme of its presentation and of the national report. Belize was a small state, facing severe economic and financial constraints in the context of the global financial crisis. The Government was proud that, despite resource challenges, Belize had found ways to increase investments in its social and economic development to enable Belizeans to actualize their social and economic human rights as well as their civil, political and cultural rights, which were firmly entrenched in the Constitution.
- 47. The delegation emphasized that room for improvement existed and welcomed the opportunity provided by the UPR to engage in a good faith discussion with Members of the Council on how to further strengthen the system of protections.

B. Interactive dialogue and responses by the State under review

- 484. During the interactive dialogue, 40 delegations made statements. Recommendations made during the dialogue are to be found in section II of the present report.
- 49. Cuba praised Belize's strategy to address the economic and social impact of the natural disasters, which are common in the country. It welcomed efforts to achieve gender equality, reduce poverty and address income disparity. It noted that the implementation of an education strategy had allowed Belize to make progress on access to, and quality of, teaching, despite persistent challenges. Cuba made recommendations.
- 50. Ecuador congratulated Belize on the progress it had made regarding human rights, particularly in the areas of gender, older persons, young people and persons with disabilities. Ecuador made recommendations.
- 51. France welcomed the efforts made by Belize since its first UPR, particularly the ratification of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (CRPD). France made recommendations
- 52. Germany recognized many of the challenges and resource constraints faced by Belize. It was, however, concerned that Belize had failed to implement many of the recommendations accepted in 2009 and encouraged the country to continue to implement its accepted first cycle recommendations. Germany made recommendations.
- 53. Honduras noted that Belize's report reflected the progress made and challenges relating to human rights in the country since its previous UPR. It commended the appointment of an Ombudsman and encouraged Belize to provide it with sufficient resources. It also supported the suggestion of the CERD that Belize establish a national human rights institution in line with the Paris Principles. Honduras made recommendations.
- 54. Indonesia noted that, despite challenges, Belize continued to advance human rights. It welcomed the mainstreaming of human rights into the national framework and commended Belize's commitment to combating HIV/AIDS and reducing the stigma and discrimination associated with the condition. It commended efforts protecting women's - rights and combat gender-based violence, and hoped that the establishment of a national human rights institution would remain on the agenda. Indonesia made recommendations.

- 55. Ireland commended the progress made by Belize, particularly concerning women's rights. Ireland was concerned by reports of violence against women and LGBT persons. It encouraged Belize to take measures preventing such violence and facilitating the reporting of allegations. It was concerned by Belize's status as a country of departure, transit and arrival for trafficked persons but praised steps taken in the area. Ireland made recommendations.
- 56. Malaysia noted developments since the first review in 2009. It commended efforts to mainstream human rights into Belize's national policy framework. Progress noted also included the promotion and protection of the rights of women, children, persons with disabilities and older persons. Significant efforts had also been made in education. It appreciated the frankness in identifying challenges, particularly concerning the eradication of poverty. Malaysia made recommendations.
- 57. The Maldives welcomed Belize's ratification of the CRPD and noted positively its accession to the Optional Protocol to the CAT. It praised efforts to promote women's entrepreneurship and looked forward to the full implementation of the revised National Gender Policy. Noting Belize's constraints regarding treaty enforcement and reporting, it called on the international community to provide technical assistance. The Maldives made recommendations.
- 58. Mexico commended Belize's creation of a national Ombudsman in 2012 and was confident that it would contribute to improving the human rights situation. It praised efforts to combat the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography, as well as legislation prohibiting the sexual exploitation of children. It noted Belize's commitment to education, efforts to integrate persons with disabilities and ratification of the CRPD. Mexico made recommendations.
- 59. Montenegro commended Belize's ratification of CRPD and asked what steps were planned to align domestic legislation with the Convention's obligations, and what measures were envisaged to facilitate the treatment and rehabilitation of persons with disabilities. Montenegro was concerned by the lack of timely reporting to treaty bodies and asked what were the main domestic challenges preventing reporting on CERD and ICCPR. Montenegro made recommendations.
- 60. Morocco asked what measures were envisaged under the Three Year Medium Term Strategy to enhance implementation and monitoring of sectoral plans relating to economic, social and cultural rights. It asked what measures were planned to improve planning to achieve the 2015 objectives set out in the action plan for children and adolescents. It urged the international community to provide technical support to help Belize fulfil its obligations under international instruments.
- 61. The Netherlands commended Belize's measures enhancing access to health care, the decrease in maternal and infant mortality and the increase in births attended by skilled personnel. It recalled two recommendations that Belize accepted in 2009, namely raising the minimum age for marriage from 16 to 18 and abolishing criminal sanctions for same-sex activity between consenting adults. It remained concerned by aspects of sexual and reproductive rights. It made recommendations.
- 62. Nicaragua noted that, despite the economic difficulties facing Belize, it had made efforts to fulfil its human rights obligations. Although it understood that lack of resources hindered compliance with international obligations, it noted that such compliance was important. It urged Belize to continue cooperating with the mechanisms of the United Nations system in the follow up and implementation of its international commitments in the field of human rights. Nicaragua made a recommendation.

- 63. Nigeria commended the Government on designing a national development scheme titled "Horizon 2030" and on embedding human rights within the national policy framework. It also commended Belize on achieving gender parity in primary and secondary education and on improved life expectancy and infant mortality rates. Nigeria made recommendations.
- 64. Norway observed that Belize lacked any constitutional or statutory provision expressly prohibiting discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and/or gender identity and that its Immigration Act included homosexuals in the list of prohibited persons for the purposes of immigration. Being opposed to the use of capital punishment under all circumstances and aiming for its universal abolition, it noted that Belize retained the death penalty. Norway made recommendations.
- 65. Paraguay noted the appointment of an Ombudsman and welcomed the priority given to combating poverty. It welcomed the adoption of "Horizon 2030" and constitutional provisions on human rights protection, which prohibited discrimination on the grounds of race, religion, colour and place of origin. It requested information on the outcome of the implementation of the revised National Gender Policy and the National Gender-Based Violence Action Plan. Paraguay made recommendations.
- 66. Peru noted advances in human rights, including the creation of a long-term national development framework; launching policies, plans and initiatives to promote gender equality and combat gender-based violence; and adopting measures to assist persons living in poverty and reduce maternal mortality, including extending National Health Insurance coverage. It also noted Belize's request for technical assistance in addressing various human rights challenges. Peru made recommendations.
- 67. The Philippines welcomed the inclusion of human rights' protection in the Constitution and its strong commitment to promoting, protecting and ensuring the enjoyment of human rights. It noted that technical and financial constraints hindered the establishment of a national human rights institution. It was encouraged that eradication of poverty was central to medium-term development. It urged Belize to consider prohibiting corporal punishment in all settings. It made recommendations.
- 68. Singapore noted various measures adopted by the Government on the rights of older persons, including on pensions, food programmes, access to health-care facilities, and that it was working on a study with the UN Population Fund to identify the constraints and challenges faced by older persons. It also noted a broad range of efforts to tackle the challenges posed by HIV/AIDS. Singapore made recommendations.
- 69. The delegation of Belize thanked States for their recommendations, comments and questions. On the matter of disabilities, the delegation replied that, even prior to becoming a party to CRPD, Belize had been operating under a framework of action for persons with disabilities. There were services available for their protection as well as for their rehabilitation and treatment. Belize was developing a comprehensive action plan to ensure that it could meet all the obligations under CRPD. There was various legislation that protected persons with disabilities, but Belize needed a complete assessment to ensure that there were no loop holes in the law. The Government was committed to work with partners and civil society to develop a renewed comprehensive framework. What was positive was that Belize's First Lady herself was a champion on this issue. She is establishing the Inspiration Centre in Belize City. The Centre will focus on rehabilitation and psychosocial support targeting particularly poor children with disabilities and their families and will provide space where children without disabilities can come and interface with children with disabilities, which bodes well for promoting a culture of tolerance vis-à-vis persons with disabilities.

- 70. Concerning lack of timely reporting on CERD and other treaty obligations, the delegation clarified that, although Belize did not submit an entire national report for CERD, it did submit answers to the list of questions relating to ICCPR. Belize was acutely aware that it needed to meet the obligations and would continue to be engaged in the dialogue with CERD. The issue was simply a matter of personnel to prepare reports. Belize had a very small unit, established in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and Belize was steadily building its capacity in that regard. In order to put together robust and meaningful reports, Belize had another limitation in terms of having timely and accurate data. Belize was strengthening administrative and micro systems within the key ministries so that data was available and that compiling reports to treaty bodies would be easier.
- 71. With regard to the National Gender-based Violence Action Plan, the delegation informed that Belize had accessed a considerable grant from the UN trust to support its implementation, including an evaluation. There were no concrete results from the evaluation as yet, but the plan was being very much implemented and a front-burner issue.
- 72. As for the National Plan of Action on children and adolescents not meeting the targets for 2015, the delegation indicated that it was rather an ambitious plan. Although Belize would not meet some of the targets, what it gained was the process. Belize was able to have major stakeholders and civil society work together in a concerted way on children's issues to set the ground work.
- 73. Slovenia welcomed steps to promote gender equality and tackle domestic violence, although reports of domestic violence against women continued. It commended the adoption of legislation to prohibit corporal punishment in schools and initiatives to promote alternative discipline. It was concerned that corporal punishment was still lawful under the Criminal Code. It indicated that Belize should address the problems it faced in reporting to the treaty bodies. Slovenia made recommendations.
- 74. Spain congratulated Belize on making human rights a top priority. It welcomed the ratification of the CRPD and the development of integrated policy approaches to gender. It was concerned about discrimination on grounds of sexual orientation and hostility towards LGTB communities. It commended the Supreme Court of Justice's 2010 judgement recognizing the land tenure rights of Mayan communities in the Toledo district. Spain made recommendations.
- 75. Thailand applauded legislation prohibiting corporal punishment of children and ensuring the right to safe drinking water and sanitation. It encouraged the establishment of an independent NHRI. It welcomed progress in ensuring access to health services, including to HIV/AIDS treatment, but noted that challenges remained. It urged the international community to provide technical assistance. Thailand made recommendations.
- 76. Trinidad and Tobago noted steps taken by Belize to strengthen its human rights framework, despite the challenge of being a Small Island Developing State (SIDS). It noted particularly the revision, amendment and enactment of legislation and policy developments in the areas of gender, early marriage, the commercial exploitation of children, youth empowerment and protecting the rights of persons living with HIV. It made recommendations.
- 77. Turkey commended the adoption of respect for the rule of law and human rights as a guiding principle for "Horizon 2030". It noted achievements in women's rights and gender equality and welcomed legislation enacted to levy severe penalties for human trafficking. It considered that the establishment of the Legal Affairs Department would be pivotal in

- overcoming the obstacles to implementation of international human rights instruments. Turkey made a recommendation.
- 78. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland supported Belize's commitment to gender equality. It was disappointed that Belize had not supported a worldwide moratorium on executions. Referring to equality in the enjoyment of human rights and inadmissibility of discrimination on the grounds of sexual orientation, it welcomed the recent comments of the Prime Minister recognizing the rights of all citizens without exception. It made recommendations.
- 79. The United States of America commended progress in addressing discrimination against women, particularly the approval of the revised National Gender Policy. It encouraged a reform of existing laws that might be used to discriminate against LGBT persons. It observed that, despite Belize's commitment to improving its technical and policy capacities during its first UPR, the second report indicated the same human rights training and institution-building needs. It made recommendations.
- 80. Uruguay highlighted ratification of the CRPD and strategies to facilitate birth registrations in public hospitals, where 90 per cent of births occurred. It noted the promulgation of the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children Prohibition Act and the Trafficking in Persons Prohibition Act, which envisaged more severe penalties for trafficking and related crimes; and the Education and Training Act, which prohibited corporal punishment in schools. Uruguay made recommendations.
- 81. Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of) noted initiatives against poverty such as BOOST and the Food Pantry Programmes. It highlighted that the expansion of the National Health Insurance Programme had led to reduced maternal mortality and noted the ratification of CRPD. Recognizing government investment in education and compulsory primary schooling, it noted measures to improve access to, and quality of, education. It made a recommendation.
- 82. Viet Nam welcomed the comprehensive presentation of the national report, and commended Belize's commitment to the UPR process and implementation of recommendations accepted during the first cycle. It also welcomed human rights achievements in institutional reform, gender balance, education, child protection, youth rights, health care and social protection. It made recommendations.
- 83. Algeria acknowledged efforts to protect and promote human rights, including ratification of the CRPD. It reiterated the call for technical assistance from the international community in establishing a National Human Rights Institution. It asked how technical assistance could contribute to the implementation of recommendations received during the UPR. Algeria made a recommendation.
- 84. Argentina applauded efforts to protect older persons' rights. It noted that a Strategic Plan for the National Council for the Ageing was currently being elaborated and asked for more information about that plan. It invited Belize to share its good practices with the Independent Expert on older persons to be appointed by the HRC. It welcomed the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children Prohibition Act and encouraged efforts to combat the scourge. Argentina made recommendations.
- 85. Australia welcomed and appointment of the new Ombudsman in 2013 though it was disappointed the Ombudsman had failed to produce annual reports since 2009. It commended human rights training for law enforcement officials, judicial officers and State officials, but remained concerned about the use of excessive force by security forces. It noted that the death penalty remained law, but acknowledged the de facto moratorium on executions. Australia made recommendations.

- 86. Barbados noted it collaborated with Belize on trade, environment, security and human rights and commended the consultative nature of the national report. It welcomed the incorporation of human rights into the national policy framework, including the Medium Term Strategy Framework and "Horizon 2030", and efforts to combat poverty. It noted protection of the rights of vulnerable groups, including older persons and those at risk from HIV/AIDS.
- 87. Brazil welcomed the revised National Gender Policy and National Gender-Based Violence Action Plan. It commended ratification of the CRPD and encouraged Belize to make a declaration under Article 14 of the ICERD. It acknowledged progress in children's rights, noting that the Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children Prohibition Act implemented the OP-CRC-SC. Commending poverty-reduction efforts, it asked about the expected results of the National Poverty Elimination Strategy. Brazil made recommendations.
- 88. Costa Rica encouraged efforts to ensure access to medical care and income security for older persons. Welcoming efforts to ensure gender equality, it called nevertheless for the low participation of women in politics to be addressed. Commending ratification of the CRPD, it encouraged its enactment in domestic law. It encouraged continuing with the de facto moratorium on the death penalty with a view to its abolition. It made recommendations.
- 89. Chile commended the integration of human rights in public policies and new action plans and legislative reform under "Horizon 2030" and the Three-Year Medium Term Strategy. It welcomed future planning under the 2014-2017 Strategy, which focused on eradicating poverty which, as noted in the national report, remained a challenge when exercising human rights and freedoms. Chile made recommendations.
- 90. China appreciated efforts to implement recommendations accepted during the previous UPR cycle relating to the National Poverty Elimination Strategy, protection of the rights of vulnerable groups, promotion of gender equality, HIV/AIDS monitoring and improving legal aid provision. It noted ongoing difficulties in poverty reduction and social security. It urged the international community to meet technical assistance needs. China made a recommendation.
- 91. Colombia recognized efforts to implement recommendations made during the previous UPR cycle and the transparent collaboration with international mechanisms. It noted that all countries faced human rights challenges, but nations had a legal and moral obligation to make citizens' lives better, particularly for the most vulnerable and discriminated populations. It offered to share its experience in the design and implementation of mechanisms for international human rights policies. Colombia made recommendations.
- 92. Canada recalled CRC recommendations to reduce poverty among children of indigenous and minority groups. It asked whether more people would be able to benefit from the BOOST and Food Pantry Programmes. It encouraged ongoing efforts in the reporting, investigation and punishment of offenses by police officers and steps to improve access to pre-school and secondary education and reduce poverty and crime. Canada made recommendations.
- 93. With regard to the question from Canada concerning increasing coverage of two social safety net programmes, the delegation stated Belize had taken the deliberate policy step to ensure that the cash transfer programme and the food pantry programme were financed with the recurrent revenue to ensure sustainability. Investment in improving health and education for poor children was a long term one, and Belize wanted to ensure sustainability of these programmes. Belize would continue to do so for the current and next financial year and have a plan to increase the number of beneficiaries of these programmes.

There was also full political support. The Prime Minister said on various occasions that these pro-poor policies and programmes were the centre piece for his Government.

- 94. As to the National Gender Policy and its aims, the delegation informed that it was designed to tackle issues of gender equality, gender equity and women's empowerment. This was a revised policy and built on the one before. Belize was working on a revised implementation plan for the policy.
- 95. Provisions for amendments to the Criminal Code that dealt with sexual offences were before the national assembly. The National Gender-Based Violence Action Plan and other issues in terms of strengthening the implementation framework for the Gender-Based Violence programme, the decent work agenda, etc. were all part and parcel of the Government commitment under the Revised Gender Policy. The cabinet approved it only this year. It was hoped that, by the first quarter next year, there would be a well consulted multi-disciplinary and multi-sectorial action plan to ensure the implementation of the Gender Policy.
- 96. The delegation stated that a part of what constituted a barrier to the development of this implementation plan was resistance from the churches, especially the evangelical churches. In certain sectors, they requested complete withdrawal of the policy because it spoke to respect for diversity, including the acknowledgement of sexual orientation as a type of diversity. It spoke to providing sexual and reproductive health services for vulnerable groups, including men who have sex with men and commercial sex workers. Because of these factors, the evangelical council and other churches had called for a complete removal of the policy. Nonetheless, the Prime Minister stated his commitment to the policy and opened the door for submissions of concerns by the council, but the action plans for various sectors were in place and Belize would continue the work in ensuring gender equity and equality and women's empowerment under the rubric of that policy.
