Katribu Kalipunan ng Katutubong Mamamayan ng Pilipinas or Katribu is the largest alliance of regional and provincial indigenous peoples organizations in the Philippines. Under Katribu's allied organizations are more than 500 community organizations. Katribu, formerly known as KAMP, was established in 1987 after a series of national consultative assemblies as a response to the escalating violation of the indigenous peoples individual and collective rights and the impending threat of massive dislocation posed by large-scale industrial development programs of the government. Since then, Katribu has strived to work for the attainment of genuine ancestral land rights and self-determination for the indigenous peoples thru its programs on Public Information, Advocacy and Campaigns; Community Immersion and Exchange and Solidarity Missions; Education and Training; Volunteers for Indigenous Peoples; International Solidarity and Engagements.

Katribu (as KAMP then) has participated in the 13th Session of the UPR and was also part of the Philippine UPR Watch delegation. The data used in this report were collated from the documentation of its allied and network organizations, fact-finding missions, on-site visits, focused group discussions and secondary data gathering.
